Dear Planning Commission:

I am writing in support of a Brisbane Baylands project that includes a robust housing element. We desperately need more housing and we don't need all of the traffic that an entirely commercial project will bring. The Brisbane Baylands Project I have seen has 7 million square feet of office and 550,000 square feet of retail. This seems more than enough – personally I would prefer even more housing that is planned.

I want my kids to be able to live in the Bay Area. Projects like this with considerable housing is the only hope I have that they can do so.

Sincerely,

Ron Kilcoyne
