Storm time is here

Greetings to all!

Happy New Year...

Today a massive storm is arriving and the atmospheric river is slated to dump several inches of rain directly onto the Bay Area. As is our habit, we walk the docks prior to the arrival of big storms to inspect dock lines and see if furlers are UNfurling, then we make calls or adjust lines as needed. In this process, we look at all vessels and we try to remain vigilant to any imminent issues before they become problems.

So— now, please come down to CHECK your boat and verify that the power is hooked up, dock lines are secure and that your through hull valves are CLOSED (we had a modern sailboat SINK in her slip as the open sub-surface valve was attached to a deteriorated HOSE— which cracked & broke... sadly, she sank 4+ feet before we caught it with our pumps... boat is a total loss!)

WiFi update— we are close to entering into a contract with a new installer to perform the upgrades. When the upgrades are complete, there will be a new login code, and we will have all login details in the office.

One of our “outside the seawall” friends was rescued in December during very bad conditions as he dragged anchor towards the Oyster Point seawall with no motor, in a near-gale Northerly storm. A picture of our work boat and crew in action (by our tenant and professional photographer Scott Wall) is on the reverse side of the newsletter. Thanks to Chris Redfield and Michael Lael for their valiant efforts on the day in question.

Finally, we have had some issues with individuals who have no right to be on the docks being let in the gate by helpful boaters... this has resulted in at least 2 police responses for aggressive trespassers. Thefts continue on the docks. And, as we sometimes terminate a boater’s dock key privileges

PLEASE do not let anyone onto the dock.

Refer them to us, or the nighttime PSA’s.
